DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-9, drawn to a biological analysis platform, classified in class 422, subclass 58.
- II. Claims 10-12, drawn to device for reading a platform, classified in class 359, subclass 204.
- III. Claim 13, drawn to a biological analysis process, classified in class 422, subclass 61.
- IV. Claims 14 and 15, drawn to process for manufacturing an analysis platform, classified in class 428, subclass 209.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions Group I and Group II are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01). In the instant case the different inventions Group I is a flexible test strip that deflects to a change in weight support on the flexible strip. Group II is a optical detecting apparatus the can be used to detect changes in optical properties.

Inventions Group I and Group III are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because one may use the flexible detection platform in a gas air stream to detect particles in an air stream. The subcombination has separate utility such as detecting particles in a liquid medium.

Inventions Group IV and Group I are related as process of making and product made. The inventions are distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) that the process as claimed can be used to make other and materially different product or (2) that the product as claimed can be made by another and materially different process (MPEP § 806.05(f)). In the instant case the product as claims can be made by another materially different process, the layers can be adhered to each other by an adhesive.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

A telephone call was made to Robert Krebs on June 4, 2004 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).
